

February 28, 2011 – Mundus Group has announced the acquisition of LKKO, LLC, as a fully owned subsidiary of Mundus Group and along with its Goki Manufacturing Group, brings a state of the art CNC prototyping facility to the Mundus Group with over forty (40) years of experience in machining, fabrication and assembly providing custom, one-off short run and long run production capabilities.

"We are excited to have acquired the LKKO-GOKI Manufacturing Group with its CNC prototyping facility. Its strategic position in the Mundus Group will, in addition to building our patented ducted fan technology, also allow us to move forward with a broader offering of diversified industry sectors with products and sales spanning the movie production industry and high performance parts for the Off Road, All Terrain Vehicle and Motorcycle industries," stated Chairman Keith Field.
